I. Programme rationale

1. The Federal Republic of Somalia has a population of around 12.3 million,\(^1\) with 52 per cent living below the $1.9 per day poverty line.\(^2\) The highest incidence of poverty is found among households located in internally displaced persons (IDP) settlements (71 per cent) and in Mogadishu (57 per cent).\(^3\)

2. After a chaotic, violent period between 1991-2011, the federal and member state structures have been established, with UNDP support, and increasingly fulfil their functions. Jubbaland, South-West, Galmudug and Hirshabelle have joined Puntland to become Federal Member States. The issue of Somaliland’s status remains unresolved. The establishment of a federal government in 2012 and, since 2013, implementation of the peace and state-building goals of the New Deal Compact have been encouraging, but significant progress is still needed, as indicated by the country’s poor ranking in the global fragile states index\(^4\) and Transparency International’s perception survey.\(^5\)

3. For the first time in two decades, the UNDP-supported National Federal Parliament successfully served a full-term\(^6\) and assisted in the finalization of the 2016 indirect elections, resulting in the election of 17 per cent youth and 25 per cent women members of parliament. Finalizing the federalism discussion on political, institutional and fiscal issues is of high priority as it guides the distribution of power and resources, revenue collection, security sector governance, and federal and state legislation.

4. The adoption of the National Development Plan, 2017-2019,\(^7\) is an important milestone and is aligned with the Sustainable Development Goals while drawing upon the New Deal Compact principles. The National Development Plan has ten pillars: (a) politics and reconciliation; (b) poverty reduction; (c) Somali national armed forces and reform of the security sector; (d) displacement; (e) resilience; (f) basic services; (g) health; (h) employment; and (i) federal framework empowering the Federal Member States.

5. Despite ongoing violent conflicts in some areas, more conflicts are resolved peacefully. Based on a comprehensive approach to security and stability, and in line with Goals 5 and 16, progress has been made in developing state policing capacity. As highlighted in the independent evaluation,\(^8\) UNDP future support needs to focus on gender responsive and inclusive community policing as part of a comprehensive approach to security and stability.

6. Over the years, legal pluralism has emerged with judiciary and rule of law actors operating with overlapping legal systems of secular statutory laws, sharia and customary law (Xeer).\(^9\) At federal level, the justice system remains ill equipped to respond to gender-based violence in the absence of a specific law outlawing sexual and other forms of violence.

\(^{3}\) Male headed households are more likely to be poor than female headed households, but the difference is minimal (52 per cent as opposed to 50 per cent) and could easily be accounted for due to a sampling bias/or error.

\(^{4}\) Global Fund for Peace, the fragile states index 2016.

\(^{5}\) Transparency International, corruption perception index, 2016.

\(^{6}\) The 9th Parliament and sitting President handed over power peacefully.

\(^{7}\) For the first time in over 30 years, in December 2016, the Government presented a nationally owned, nationally-led national development plan.

\(^{9}\) Decades of limited access to inefficient, corrupt formal institutions has led Somalis to depend on trusted, centuries-old traditional dispute resolution mechanisms, such as the Xeer.
The 2016 annual report of the Somalia protection cluster reports 7,293 cases of gender-based violence, with many others unreported. Female genital mutilation persists, with a prevalence rate of 98 per cent, the achievement of Goal 5 remains challenging. Somalia has not ratified the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW). HIV prevalence is growing at rate of approximately 1 per cent per annum.

7. With United Nations support, some state and district departments show improving service delivery, often through hybrid governance arrangements negotiated between state, private and civic sector actors, and clan elders. Evaluations have identified limited progress at the district level in addressing weak local institutions and delivery of public services.

8. Almost a fifth of the country’s population is affected by forced displacement. The ongoing drought, food insecurity and conflict have led to the displacement of over 766,000 men, women and children who need assistance, access to basic services and jobs. In addition, 1.1 million men, women, boys and girls had already been displaced owing to earlier conflicts and the 2011 famine. Inadequate government coordination capacity and suboptimal humanitarian-development cooperation has led to a fragmented response with weak linkages between relief, recovery and longer-term development.

9. The heavy reliance of Somalia on unsustainably managed natural resources is one of major sources of fragility. Ecosystems are under serious threat from a combination of deforestation resulting from charcoal production and climate change, leading to recurrent floods and droughts. In 2011, a drought led to famine in which over 250,000 people died; similar drought conditions in 2016-2017 led to famine risks, but averted through a robust humanitarian response. Inequitable access to natural resources leaves Somali women and girls disproportionately affected.

10. Lack of access to affordable energy impedes economic growth. Less than a quarter of the population has access to electricity and tariffs are among the highest in the world. While governance reforms are required, potential exists in harnessing renewable energy.

11. More than half the working-age population is outside the labour force, and women are more likely to be affected. Households in IDP settlements are most affected by unemployment. Approximately two thirds of youth are unemployed, which may increase their risk of radicalization. More young women (27 per cent) than young men (15 per cent) are neither working nor in school.

12. In 2012, UNDP moved its operations from Nairobi to Mogadishu to closely engage with national counterparts. In previous programming cycles, UNDP supported the state formation and electoral process that concluded in 2016 in partnership with the United Nations Assistance Mission in Somalia (UNSOM), the African Union Mission in Somalia (AMISOM) and other international actors. The support to these processes shows the importance of United Nations integration.

10 There is a lack of sex-disaggregated data.
13 Lawlessness due to conflict has enabled land grabbing, leading to massive displacement of less powerful clans, significant damage to water sources and accelerated destruction of forests to produce charcoal.
15 Women’s participation in wage labour 40 per cent in Puntland, 36 per cent in Somaliland and lower in emerging new states (33 per cent).
13. With UNDP support, the country developed the National Development Plan aligned with the Goals at the end of 2016 – the country’s first national plan since the early 1980s. UNDP helped to drive the establishment of an aid architecture around the Somali New Deal Compact and the Multi-Partner Trust Fund (MPTF), led by the Government.

14. UNDP is the lead actor for many country team joint programmes. Due to its trust-based lasting relationships at all levels and thought leadership on the National Development Plan, UNDP has a comparative advantages in capacity development at federal, state and local levels and in leading international support in the next step of the state-building agenda. Growing partnerships with the Global Environment Facility (GEF), the Green Climate Fund and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) have opened new pathways for cooperation on climate change resilience, linking humanitarian work with recovery, and gradually shifting the country’s development to more a sustainable trajectory, making Somalia a good case for the ‘new way of working’.

15. Based on the assessment of development results’ recommendations, a new approach has been designed focused on the ‘core of government functions’ and strengthening capacities of institutions. At the request of the Government, UNDP will develop an integrated platform to support government efforts to fight corruption and strengthen the accountability of institutions. The assessment of development results recommended that the UNDP country office scale up its poverty reduction programme to align with Goals 1, 6, 7, 11 and 13, ensuring gender-responsive livelihoods, climate change resilience, natural resource management interventions and provision of renewable energy.

16. UNDP targeted initiatives and gender mainstreaming have contributed to achieving gender equality results, including supporting women’s representation in the new federal parliament; after the 2016 electoral process, women’s representation increased by 75 per cent. But important challenges remain.

17. Together with the Government, UNDP will support the National Development Plan’s vision of an inclusive political system, with credible and transparent elections in 2020 and the reestablishment of professional and accountable national security forces. UNDP will contribute to reducing poverty by developing a comprehensive approach to displacement and to resilient communities able to withstand climatic shocks and the building of an economic framework that empowers the Federal Member States to deliver services and focus on employment creation – particularly for youth – in agriculture, livestock and fishing. UNDP, together with UNSOM, will continue to support: the federalism agenda; finalization of the constitution; the election of parliaments and district councils in a transparent process with equitable representation of men, women and youth; the strengthening of mechanisms for the peaceful resolution of conflict; and improving access to justice for Somali men and women. UNDP will coordinate with the World Bank and United Nations organizations – including the International Labour Organization (ILO) and the International Organization for Migration (IOM) – in strengthening the public-sector machinery by working on core government functions, service delivery and building capacity for post-disaster recovery. UNDP will join forces with United Nations organizations, including the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat) and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) to tackle the needs of groups that have been left behind by supporting durable solutions, access to markets, renewable energy, value chains, infrastructure and skills development with a particular focus on women’s economic empowerment.

18 Ibid.
II. Programme priorities and partnerships

18. The UNDP country programme, aligned with the United Nations Somalia Strategic Framework (UNSF), 2017-2020, will support the Government, Federal Member States and Somaliland to deliver on political, rule of law, security, human rights, socioeconomic recovery and development priorities, as outlined in the National Development Plan as well as the Somaliland National Development Plan-II. The Government requested support for the implementation of the Goals-aligned National Development Plan, and the United Nations collectively responded via the development of the UNSF. The UNSF identified UNDP as a lead agency in areas including rule of law, resilience, inclusive politics and institutional strengthening. UNDP comparative advantages build on relationships and access to government, its presence across the country, and unique experience in delivering on the country’s complex environment.

19. UNDP will target those left behind – low-income women, youth, IDPs and vulnerable groups – with broad civil society participation to ensure inclusivity of interventions. UNDP will continue to engage with partners at all levels, including the new Federal Member States and newly accessible districts. Together with the public and private sector, academia and civil society, UNDP will explore new innovative methodologies to reduce exclusion, vulnerabilities and gender disparities, accelerate socioeconomic development, and enhance youth entrepreneurship and employment.

20. UNDP will seek South-South cooperation across all programmes to support the country’s engagement on regional and global platforms, and to further the Goals, while focusing on National Development Plan priorities, including capacity development, service delivery and economic recovery. The focus will be on establishing longer-term cooperation between Somali institutions and institutions in other countries.

21. UNDP will actively support the development of innovative solutions to social engagement and public sector service delivery as well as employment generation and private sector development. Together with partners in the public, private and non-profit sectors, UNDP will seek domestic solutions to development challenges while utilizing global best practices. Dedicated attention to sustained and alternative financing arrangements will underscore the sustainability of these efforts.

22. UNDP will focus on the following National Development Plan and UNSF priorities:

Development priority 1. Inclusive and responsive political processes

23. Responding to the UNSF priority 1 and strategic plan outcome 2, UNDP, in coordination with UNSOM, will boost the capacity of the legislative institutions at federal and state level, as well as the Ministry of Constitutional Affairs and other key government partners, to perform the constitutional review in an inclusive and gender-responsive manner. UNDP will advocate for effective engagement of civil society by supporting platforms for national dialogue and by facilitating strategic partnerships between civil society and legislative institutions. UNDP will support national dialogues to deepen federalism and frame its political, institutional and fiscal aspects. UNDP will work with UNSOM and the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN-Women) to boost the capacity of women and young members of parliament as agents of change and enable women’s increased participation in political processes and leadership functions. Working in an integrated manner with UNSOM, UNDP will help develop and support implementation of an electoral cycle strategy aligned to Goals 5 and 16, which includes developing a gender-responsive electoral law, a nationwide election administration capacity, registration and regulation of political parties, voter registration, and strengthening of civil society, while advocating for political leadership’s commitment to transparency and accountability. UNDP work under this priority area will be closely aligned to Goals 5 and 16.

Development priority 2. Extending accountable and transparent service delivery in a secure environment

24. In line with UNSF priorities 2 and 3 and strategic plan outcomes 2 and 3, UNDP will strengthen its partnerships at national, state and district levels to expand inclusive service delivery, in particular in parts of the country where formal state structures have long been absent, supporting the extension of state authority. UNDP, in close collaboration with the World Bank, will support the formulation of the government ‘system design’ in line with international standards (laws, rules, regulations, operating procedures) in the core priority of state functions, including in the rule of law sector. UNDP will also support the policy, legal and regulatory framework to define how government should comply with anti-corruption and accountability standards. UNDP will support national and state institutions to deliver against their mandates, including mobilizing and effectively managing required resources to ensure sustainability of financing for development, as per Goal 17. UNDP will bring best practices on federalism, justice, police and security sector development using a gender-responsive approach supporting dispute-resolution and prevention of violence through inclusion and integrated coordination mechanisms between traditional and formal justice systems. UNDP will work with UNSOM to support capacity for the implementation of the country’s national strategy and action plan to prevent and counter violent extremism.

Development priority 3. Progress from protracted socioeconomic and environmental fragility and recurrent humanitarian crises.

25. In alignment with UNSF priorities 4 and 5, UNDP will seek more sustainable responses to crisis and displacement and promote long-term development solutions to break the cycle of crisis and reduce the need for humanitarian assistance within the new resilience and recovery framework in partnership with the World Bank and the European Union. At the specific request of the Government and in line with Goals 1, 7, 8, 11, 13 and 15 and the ‘new way of working’ agreed in the 2016 World Humanitarian Summit, UNDP will boost its efforts to better link humanitarian, recovery and development interventions to progressively achieve the 2030 Agenda. Working with the ministries of interior, labour, planning, trade and commerce, gender, water and energy, and in cooperation with FAO, ILO and UN-Habitat, UNDP will stimulate employment (particularly for women and youth) by strengthening demand in growth sectors of the economy, increasing the supply of skills required by the market and leveraging short-term ‘cash for work’ opportunities. Access to clean energy will be increased through regulatory reforms, financial intermediation and skills training that promote the rapid diffusion of viable off-grid or mini-grid solar energy services for poor, women and IDPs. In cooperation with FAO and UNEP, further steps will be taken to build the capacity of environment, water management and disaster risk reduction institutions, and promote ecosystems-based climate change adaptation, sustainable land management and the protection of biodiversity. In cooperation with UN-Habitat and UNHCR, durable solutions will be sought for protracted displacement that increase the productive capacities of IDPs, build their human capital, catalyse investment in appropriate physical infrastructure, and promote equitable, gender-responsive welfare services.

III. Programme and risk management

26. The country programme document outlines UNDP contributions to national results and is the primary tool of accountability to the Executive Board for results alignment and resources assigned to the programme at country level. Accountabilities of managers at the country, regional and headquarter levels with respect to country programmes is prescribed in the organization’s programme and operations policies and procedures and the internal control framework.

27. The country programme will be nationally executed. National execution may be replaced by direct execution to enable response to force majeure. Direct implementation will be used for circumstances where counterpart capacities require it. Direct implementation will systematically be accompanied by targeted national capacity development efforts and direct agreements with national authorities with the aim of shifting to national implementation and use of country systems, in line with the new partnership agreement for Somalia, and the Government use-of-country-systems roadmap. UNDP will strive to adequately address the needs of Somaliland with targeted programming.

28. UNDP will strengthen joint monitoring and evaluation practices to generate disaggregated data and evidence through periodic reviews, midterm and/or final evaluations and engage in joint efforts on resilience, disaster recovery, risk management and prevention. The country programme will remain flexible to cater to priorities emerging from ongoing United Nations reform and the new UNDP strategic plan.

29. As aid delivery mechanisms continue to evolve in Somalia, UNDP will work with its partners to design a partnership strategy that goes beyond traditional resource mobilization. This entails fully leveraging the capacities and resources of traditional and non-traditional donors, and establishing strategic collaborations with international financial institutions and regional development banks. UNDP will apply innovative, policy-oriented, issues-based cooperation approaches with development partners such as the European Union, Japan, Norway, Sweden and the United Kingdom and will strategically engage with emerging donors, including Gulf countries. Continued insecurity and climatic shocks, in combination with global developments, pose financial risks as they may lead to loss of resources, requiring recalibration of programming.

30. Limited capacities of national partners remain a concern. The harmonized approach to cash transfers (HACT) will continue to be used together with other United Nations organizations to manage fiduciary and operational risks. In accordance with Executive Board decision 2013/32, cost definitions and classifications for programme and development effectiveness will be charged to concerned projects. As part of the assessment of development results’ recommendations, UNDP will implement a comprehensive capacity development strategy for its staff and partners, particularly on finance and procurement. UNDP will continue to play a leading role in promoting the principles and preparing the national systems to increase absorption.

31. The country office will apply UNDP social and environmental standards and accountability mechanisms as part of normal risk management practice, using multiple mechanisms, including third-party monitoring. The United Nations Risk Management Unit will continue to assist the country office in assessing, monitoring and mitigating programmatic and operational risks, based on ISO 13000 risk management standards.

32. The country office will continue with a strong presence in Mogadishu, expand office presence in state capitals in Somalia, and maintain a liaison office in Nairobi while remaining flexible to scale up and scale down in accordance with security developments. Innovative implementation modalities will be explored and third-party monitoring will be used in inaccessible areas.
33. UNDP will continue to prioritize gender equality through innovative ‘female intern’ programmes and by ensuring vendors adhere to gender equality benchmarks. Country programme indicators will be revised to ensure consistency with the UNDP strategic plan.

IV. Monitoring and evaluation

34. Somalia lacks the capacity to collect and analyse data and relies on the international community for statistics. UNDP, on the request of the Government, will support the Department of Statistics in the Ministry of Planning to collect and analyse data and oversee the dissemination of gender and age-disaggregated data collected by other government agencies. UNDP will support the Sustainable Development Goals coordination unit and strengthen government monitoring and evaluation.

35. UNDP will complement survey data with innovative applications of big data – both structured (census, survey) and non-structured (open data sources, mobile call records, social media, remote-sensing, satellite imageries) – to complement traditional monitoring and evaluation approaches and to allow for real-time monitoring of changes on the ground. UNDP will promote innovative ways of monitoring, including in partnership with the Global Pulse initiative.

36. A minimum of 15 per cent of all programme and project activities will specifically address gender equality and women’s empowerment (gender marker 3), while a minimum of 50 per cent will significantly address the same (gender marker 2). The UNDP gender marker will be used to monitor country programme expenditures and to improve gender-responsive planning, implementation and monitoring.

37. UNDP will contribute to conduct research on critical Somali governance and development challenges, such as drought, displacement, youth as an agent or spoiler of change, prevention of violent extremism and the humanitarian-development nexus. At the request of the Government, UNDP will facilitate, through South-South and triangular cooperation, exposure to and learning from experiences in the region and similar (post-crisis) settings on these topics.
